LACCD GOES TO THE CLOUD FOR IMPROVED PUBLIC AGENDA MANAGEMENT

LOS ANGELES—The Los Angeles Community College District (LACCD) is now using a Cloud-based software technology solution to improve management and distribution of the public agendas for the District’s Board of Trustees regular and special meetings and for meetings of the Board’s standing committees.

Roll-out of the new online service begins first with the Board’s standing committees on Wednesday, March 20, 2019, followed by the Board’s next regularly scheduled meeting in April. Links to the agendas via the new service are on the District’s homepage at www.laccd.edu.

The new software service, called BoardDocs, will allow interested parties to review information online prior to meetings or while attending the meetings. The public will also be able to review online what action the Board took and how Board members voted. All documents associated with the meeting will be automatically archived and accessible by date or by using the system’s search function.

As a result, the District will be transitioning away from providing hard copies of the Board agendas and related materials at future meetings.

Agendas and other materials will continue to be posted in hard copy format and available for viewing in the lobby of the District’s headquarters at 770 Wilshire Blvd., in Downtown Los Angeles.
