

ADA Workplace Accommodation Appeal Form

Instructions

The appeal process is intended to provide employees with the opportunity to bring forward questions regarding substantive or procedural errors that occurred during the accommodation review process. The appeal process is not intended to initiate a new accommodation review process at a higher level.

When an alternative resolution process is not successful, employees may formally appeal an accommodation denial. To do so, the employee must address in writing one or more of the following bases for appeal to the ADA Administrator:

- a. Identify the facts in the record that do not support the accommodation denial and explain why those facts warrant a different outcome.
- b. Identify new facts that were not known during the interactive process and state how these new facts would change the analysis and decision.
